

A black and white photograph of a Vermeer BC1500 brush chipper in operation. The machine is a large, tracked vehicle with a large hopper at the front and a discharge chute at the back. A worker wearing a hard hat and safety vest stands next to the machine, looking towards the camera. The machine is processing a large log, and a stream of wood chips is being discharged from the chute. The background shows a wooded area with many trees. The machine has "Vermeer" and "BC1500" written on it.
